

Lobster 58

Articles of faith

The story of British Intellectual Journalism

Neil Berry

Ewell (Surrey): Waywiser Press, 2008, £8.99

(www.waywiserpress.com)

This is a second edition and the first received some glowing reviews from the major media. I read only the second half of this nicely produced, thoroughly bound 260 page paperback: the essays on the New Statesman under Kingsley Martin; Encounter, the Congress for Cultural Freedom and the CIA; and Karl Miller and the London Review of Books. These essays are very good, very well informed and a pleasure to read (and reread). I would think that anyone who enjoys reading Lobster will enjoy this. A keeper.